I received my Bachelor of Arts Degree in 1957 at Vassar College and my Master of Arts in Teaching at Tufts Graduate School of Arts and Sciences the following year. My specialized training that led to New York State certification in Reading and Learning Disability was acquired by additional course work at the College of New Rochelle and Manhattanville College. For the past 22 years, I have been retired from a variety of teaching experiences in Reading and Learning Disability as a private tutor, at Edgemont High School, as a tutor for homebound youngsters in the Mamaroneck School System and as a Suzuki violin teacher.

For several summers, before Covid, I volunteered in a reading program at the Lee Library.

I am a violist who still plays chamber music. I was a member of the Fellows' Orchestra at Tanglewood in the '50s. I presently sing in the B'Shalom Chorale and the Westchester Chorale. I've played tennis since I was a child and still enjoy doing so.
